The heartwood, from the middle section of the trunk, contains chemicals (resins, phenols and terpenes) which make it resistant to insects and fungal decay.

Like learning CPR, practicing the proper handling of an oxygen convulsion is maintaining a skill you hope you'll never use.

It has been amazing, no bruising or infection and rapid healing.